

The BANKE BIHARI CORRIDOR

The construction of the historic corridor to be built over 5 acres, and over 10,000 devotees can stay inside the complex at a time.

The temple corridor, to be built on the lines of the Kashi-Vishwanath Temple Corridor, will offer devotees three convenient routes to reach the Krishna temple. The Vrindavan temple is one of the most popular pilgrim sites in North India for Krishna devotees which is just 25 Km away from the MAATRA BHOOMI DEVELOPERS Site.

The corridor is among many proposed to be built by the government across the country to boost religious tourism within India. This will definitely bring inevitable developments in many places around the corridor and our MAATRA BHOOMI PROJECT is considered to be the one of the places that will definitely get benefitted from this project in terms of overall development of the city of Mathura-Vrindavan.
